

This image contains a highly complex and dense table with numerous columns and rows. The table is organized into several distinct sections. The top section is a header with colored columns, including yellow, blue, and pink. The middle and bottom sections consist of a large grid of rows, with some rows highlighted in light gray. The data within the table is not legible due to its size and density.

